

Empower your entire organization with Microsoft Teams

Microsoft Teams helps businesses become more efficient by enabling improved collaboration, horizontal work methods, and organized, easily accessible information. It also helps them to accelerate decision making by sharing information in the moment and with context, empowering people to quickly make well-informed choices.

Read below to learn how all your departments can use Teams to deliver organization-wide value.

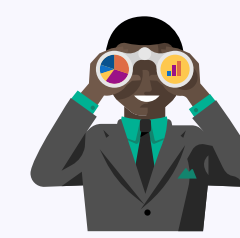

Human Resources

HR departments can use Teams to effectively manage recruitment, training, and reviews across administrative areas, as well as to establish meetings with candidates and peers.

Sales

Teams is a crucial tool for sales reps to communicate when in the field or during meetings and deliver real-time reporting on customer cases from anywhere in the world.

Marketing

Teams provides a creative hub where creative ideas and strategies can evolve into revenue-generating initiatives.

Finance

Financial departments benefit greatly from Teams' security and integration features, which helps their information remain safe and easily accessible whenever they need it.

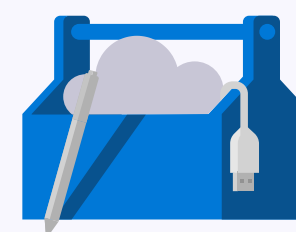

Engineering

Teams can allow engineering departments to move quickly between ideation, development and deployment phases, as well as easily integrate developer tools.

Project Management

PMs can effectively use Teams to manage stakeholders, tools, budgets, project reviews, and feedback.

Information Technology

Teams increases the efficiency of IT departments and allows them to focus on their organization's digital transformation and technological innovation.

To get started on creating a more connected business with Microsoft Teams, click here.